Very Philosophic.

He is only a toiler among a myriad of toilers; and yet he has something distinctive. As he balances, with careful consideration, between his throat and forefinger the silver coin which ought to purchase meat, butter, calico, leather and a thousand and one things which are necessary, but impossible—he remarks: "When I look around and see some of the rich men of this community, I am glad that I am poor. It is a kind of certificate of good character."

The Old Folks.

The Old Folks' Excursion will take place on Wednesday, July 11th. All between 70 and 80 must wear a red badge or rosette; those between 80 and 90 a blue badge, and all over 90 a white one.

The committee particularly desire this to be strictly observed, as by their badges they will secure the attentions and courtesies during the day which are their due.

With the ladies of the Relief Societies kindly interest themselves in their behalf, and not only see that their badges are properly put on, but that they are supplied with a little picnic, knife and fork, and cup and saucer.

The committee will feel obliged if the bishops will kindly furnish a list of the names and ages of every one in their respective wards over 70 years of age, and send to Bishop Hunter's office, at latest by Monday next. This year's invitation extends throughout the whole of Salt Lake Stake, and the names and ages of all who wish to go must be in by Monday. Those who live in the settlements will please govern themselves accordingly, to avoid disappointment.

The Fourth at Fort Douglas.

The opening ceremonies this morning will be held promptly at 11 o'clock. Don't forget, as the object is to have everything move promptly. Start early so as to be in time, and remember that if you have a big load of passengers, your team will move slowly up the hill. A very pleasant programme has been arranged, and you are sure to enjoy yourselves. Take your picnic and be prepared to eat and drink, as you will be hungry in those healthy breezes.

There will be a good time, and all should participate. The committees can be found at No. 11, officer's quarters, if they can spare time enough from their duties to stay there a while.

The grand lunch and barbecue will take place in the rear of the officers' quarters in splendid shade, and delightful mountain breezes made to order.

Come along, listen to the eloquent speeches and the excellent music, eat beef, sheep or lamb, and intoxicate yourselves on genuine lemonade.

If you see anything you don't want, you are respectfully invited to yell out for it.

Waterworks.

City Surveyor Jesse Fox, Jr., and G. M. Ottinger, superintendent of waterworks, spent yesterday in surveying and obtaining levels in City Creek cañon. The object was to enable them to report to the City Council on the most feasible plan of relocating the waterworks tanks higher up the cañon. The necessity of increased pressure with which to fully supply the present water services, renders this imperative. In fact the present 20-inch water mains, even under additional pressure, are not capacious enough to meet the growing demand and it is only a question of a short time when larger or extra main pipes will have to be laid, and care taken to store and husband the surplusage of water now allowed to waste down the aqueduct.

Day of Freedom.

SALT LAKE CITY, July 22, 1883.

Editors Herald:

The "Glorious Fourth" is consecrated to freedom, to liberty, but not license. On that great day every citizen should feel free—free to go here and there, to do this or that, as his inclination may dictate, provided that he does not interfere with his neighbor's liberty to enjoy himself as he pleases. Personal enmities of every kind might well cease for one day in the year, and naught but good will prevail, so that one day at least in the round 365 might shine like "a good deed in a naughty world." Why not? Why not let every man be at perfect liberty to go to Fort Douglas, to Liberty Park, to Washington or any other square, to any of the cañons, to the lake, to Puller's, to Calder's or anywhere else, or to stay at home, just as he pleases, to-morrow? My vote goes that way, whether the commissioners count it or not.

SALT LAKE.

LADIES' AND Gent's Bathing Suits, also Materials for same, at Auerbach's.

Paul Boulton Company.

Paul Boulton's Musical and Comedy Company at Walker's Opera House last evening were greeted in a manner very flattering indeed to the artists engaged. Mr. Boulton is no doubt proud of his company. Though not large in numbers, their performance is equal to many of the larger and more pretentious ones, if not better. Mr. Boulton is justified in his claim of being "The Ole Bull of America," his performance on the violin is simply marvelous; his repeated calls were well merited. As "Yan Kie," the Chinaman, he puts the heathen himself to the blush. Mrs. Minnie Boulton is not only a fine tuba player but excels on the violin and banjo. Miss Emily Boulton, with her cornet, adds an additional charm to the musical portion of the entertainment. Miss Briggs, as Katie, was vivacious and proved to be a charming soubrette, thought we think she should divert her attention to something heavier. Mr. C. E. Barnes is undoubtedly one of the finest guitarists we have ever had the occasion to listen to; Mr. Fred. Gere, the comedian of the company, kept the audience in an uproar during the evening, especially with his "No. 11" flat boat shoes; Mr. Utzinger and Mr. E. Boulton acquitted themselves most creditably; Little May Boulton—the child wonder—appears this afternoon and evening as "Hello Dutch" in Mr. Gere's farce of "The Newly Elected Mayor." "The Arkansas Traveler" is a true picture of what that country was several years ago, and altogether the entertainment is most entertaining and amusing, and is more than well worth seeing.

We understand that Mr. Boulton will return from the east during the fall with an augmented company, and if he does, he will be greeted with rousing houses.

Washington Square.

One of the most interesting as well as exciting programmes ever given the Salt Lake public will be rendered this afternoon on Washington square. For the first time in the history of the Territory there will be a bona fide gas balloon ascension, which promises to be made doubly thrilling by the fact that two or more of Salt Lake's citizens are going to be reckless enough to take the dread ride in midair in company with Prof. P. A. Van Tassel. The balloon is a monster, being some ninety feet high and sound in every particular. The ascension will take place between 2 and 3 o'clock, unless the wind should render a change necessary, and the professor is confident that he will travel a considerable distance, dropping down perhaps in Ogden or Provo as the wind may will.

A feature, while not so novel, which will doubtless prove equally interesting is the return game between the Olympic nine of Salt Lake and the Ogden Athletics, which will precede the balloon ascension, beginning at 2 o'clock. The recent victory of the Ogden team has at least demonstrated the fact that the Salt Lake boys will have to get in some line playing to wax their opponents. The prospects are the game will be one of the closest ever played on the diamond here and both nines, appreciating this fact, have practiced up to their best playing strength.

In addition to these attractions a number of foot races for various purses and bicycle races for the gold and silver medals, also a ten-mile bicycle race for a silver stop watch—in all of which entries have been made—have been arranged for, altogether making a most complete programme.

In view of the fact that the Athletic Association is devoting all the means accruing from these exhibitions to the planting of permanent improvements on the square, there is no doubt but many will find other reasons for patronizing the games, etc., than the presence of these attractive exercises.

The Opera House Brass Band have been engaged to furnish music on the grounds, and every desirable accommodation has been secured to make those attending comfortable, including refreshments, etc.

Up in a Balloon.

The children's pet, "Jack," the funny little monkey belonging to Mr. Mearns, goes up in the balloon to-day with Professor Van Tassel. The monkey has more friends in this city than any human being, so that if there should be more interest in him than in Van the latter should not be envious.

Miss EMILY BOULTON, the unsurpassed female cornet and alto soloist, appears at each performance of Paul Boulton's Combination. At the Walker Opera House, this evening.

Big Business.

The heaviest transaction in wool this season so far in our city took place yesterday. John C. Sharp and Israel Bennion, of Vernon, Tooele County, sold 60,000 pounds to V. M. C. Silva, of Ogden, at current market price.

Arrests and Peace Preserving.

The police had a lively time last night trying to preserve the peace. Quite a number of persons were arrested for firing off crackers and Chinese bombs, and several spats occurred which created considerable feeling between the "boys" and the police. For a time the firing was incessant and vicious in the extreme, but towards morning the noise quieted down considerably. There is no question that a great deal of "spite" firing was done for the purpose of getting "even" with the police for spoiling the fun. The want to remember that the police were simply doing their duty, and that those who were enjoying themselves at the expense of the rest and comfort of good citizens were law-breakers, and willful and malicious lawbreakers at that, whose sport endangered fires and greater or less loss of property. That no fires occurred and that no one was hurt was a matter of good fortune and due to no care on the part of the "boys." The boys should have all the fire they need, but it should be of a character that does not incur probable loss and certain discomfort to citizens. Let every person guilty be arrested, and fined just for the fun of the police boys.

"Vim."

Quite a large audience was present at the Theatre last evening to witness the reappearance of Mr. Niel Burgess, this time in his new piece called "Vim." "Vim" is certainly original in many respects; and while not of much worth as a literary production, it gives Mr. Burgess ample opportunity for the display of his peculiar style of acting. The moment he comes upon the stage, new life seems to be infused into the whole piece and the fun is renewed. The dialogue, so far as relates to Burgess is remarkably sprightly and humorous, and laughter is a continuous result. The circus and revolving stage and panorama are really remarkable and brought down the house. The play took like wild fire and was a decided hit. Its success is assured.
